LANDIG – QUALITY SINCE 1982

THE BEST FOR YOUR GAME

Dear Hunters,

Hunting is about much more than just taking a shot. It's a way of living, conservation, managing wildlife responsibly and making conscious use of one of nature's most precious gifts. Wild game meat is a true treasure – and it deserves processing that combines quality with responsibility.

More and more hunters are choosing not only to use their wild game themselves, but to refine it into real culinary experiences. From the first cuts during butchering to the finished dish on the plate – with the right equipment, this process becomes hygienic, efficient and professional.

For over 40 years, our products have stood for durability, precision and well-thought-out engineering. Whether it's high-performance vacuum sealers, energy-efficient game refrigerators, or smart butchering tools – each product is designed to make processing easier for you. Almost all components are repairable and thanks to the latest technologies, we've reduced the energy consumption of our cooling units by over 50%. So you're not only choosing top-tier quality, but you are also making a choice that is environmentally conscious.

Enjoy browsing, have a successful hunting season and Waidmannsheil from Aaron, Andreas, Christian & Manfred Landig.

ANDY TARRANT

FOUNDER AND DIRECTOR, GAME LARDER BY TARRANT REFRIGERATION

When I started Tarrant Refrigeration 44 years ago we could never have foreseen the incredible adventures we have been on as a company. A journey that has seen us be by appointment to the late Her Majesty The Queen, Queen Elizabeth II, to be at the forefront of the introduction of CFC replacement gases and enjoying over four decades of service to the food, game and dairy industry.

Adventures have an added excitement when personal interest and professional expertise combine. As a keen deer stalker of twenty years it has been my personal passion project to combine cutting edge refrigeration and cool chain solutions with innovative solutions for deer managers, estates and recreational stalkers. In that time we have built some incredible facilities for some amazing clients across a whole spectrum of size and needs but adding the Landig Group range of products completes the offering, enabling Game Larder by Tarrant Refrigeration to rightly say we are, your one stop shop for everything after the shot.

A successful stalk or day's shooting is defined by many criteria, but the goal is always to have life enriching experiences, whether solo or with friends and to be at one with nature, often in some of her most breathtaking locations but for us the ultimate prize is the game meat itself. As stalkers, hunters and shooting people it is always a privilege to be able to produce game dishes from our quarry that are as ethical, sustainable, professional and humane as possible, at all stages from field to fork.

The hunting experience doesn't end with the shot, the culmination is served on the plate. The following pages and our website bear testament to and endorse that and provide the tools to enable the field to fork journey.

We hope you enjoy this catalogue, that it becomes a point of reference for future trips and wish you happy hunting and always good luck.

Cooling and aging game

"You know when you walk into a deer larder designed and installed by Tarrant Refrigeration. Their experience shines through and they will deliver for years for anyone, large or small producer, who wants to ensure we are putting the best quality venison into the food chain. The BDS is delighted to be partnering with such a high quality and essential business"

Hugh van Cutsem
Chairman of The British Deer Society

Whether you're grilling, making sausages, or cooking sous-vide – game meat is incredibly versatile and packed with positive qualities. Animals living in the wild experience less stress – and you can taste it. Their lower connective tissue content also leads to exceptional tenderness – provided the meat was allowed to age properly after field dressing. Without proper cooling and aging, even the best cut – game or not – will end up tough. Only during the aging process do key enzymatic reactions occur, making the meat truly enjoyable.

LANDIG – THE BEST COOLING SYSTEM FOR GAME MEAT

Extremely economical – highly efficient due to the optimised cooling system – approx. 10 % less energy consumption (which today is more important than ever). The LU 4500 consumes only 0.6 kWh/24 hours of electricity and even the larger device models LU 7000 and LU 9000 Premium are only slightly higher.

Guarantee & Service: For us this means a 2-year full warranty for all units. From experience, we know that Landig has an average lifespan of up to 20 years. Landig has a Europe-wide service network with over 220 customer service centres. Competent, reliable and on-site within a short time.

Unpack, plug in, done and it's time to get started! Landig game fridges are conveniently delivered on tail lift vehicles, with notifications. Your unit can be installed in almost any suitable location, such as a game larder, processing room, garage, cellar, or shed - anywhere that is sheltered from wind and weather.

LWS TECHNOLOGIE Precise temperature control from -5 to +15 °C supports the aging process and is ideal for freezing sausage meat. Minimal temperature fluctuations allow for extended aging and storage times. The unit can also operate effectively in low ambient temperatures.

TURBOSYSTEM Fast cooling times are essential for wild boar. High-quality, tender game without shock-cooling, with 35% more cooling performance (compared to the 1st and 2nd generation). The empty unit reaches the desired temperature within minutes - the benefits speak for themselves!

Lu Plus Sustainably supporting the aging process, guarantees optimum air humidity and prevents the drying of the surface of the game. Constant air flow and fast cooling, even when fully stocked. Can be used for shorter and longer periods.

Properly butchering game

Scan here to browse our butchery equipment

Why butcher your game yourself?

- Pure enjoyment: You control the quality of each cut.
- Guaranteed freshness: Straight from the field to your kitchen.
- Respect for the animal: Learn the anatomy of game and understand where your meat comes from.
- Sustainability: Use the whole animal and avoid food waste.

Freshly hunted and full of flavour – that's wild game fresh from our native forests, hills and moorlands. But before those delicious dishes land on your plate, the animal has to be properly butchered.

With a bit of practice and the right tools, even beginners can butcher with confidence.

Professional game processing

Scan here to watch Alex Russon of Hunter Gatherer Cooking discuss Landig mincers with Game Larder at The Stalking Show 2025

Game is the true reward of the hunt – unmistakable in taste, sustainable and versatile. No supermarket can compete with that. Those who process their own game know: this is more than just meat – it's craftsmanship and tradition.

Why limit yourself to just steaks and roasts? With a bit of skill, every cut becomes a true delicacy. From back to haunch, shoulder to neck – each piece deserves its moment. Sausages or burger patties from your own production? Absolutely. The best ingredients, prepared with care – a pleasure that excites and brings people together.

And the best part: with the right equipment, it's almost effortless. Mincer, sausage filler, cutter – those who are well equipped get the most out of their game. Clean and efficient work means better results – ones that look and taste great. So, let's get to refining game! Homemade always tastes better. Especially with the right tools.

“Quiet, powerful, and built to last, my efficient Landig W100 mincer delivers low-noise performance, effortless cleaning and total peace of mind with its 25-year motor warranty.”

Adam Muirhead,
AGM Venison

British Quality Wild Venison Scheme

What is British Quality Wild Venison?

The British Quality Wild Venison (BQWV) Standard strengthens traceability and consistency across the British wild venison supply chain in England, Wales and Northern Ireland.

It applies only to legally culled wild deer intended for human consumption, including animals living freely in enclosed areas and unmanaged by veterinary intervention.

Aim of the Scheme

Developed by a cross-sector working group led by the Forestry Commission and including organisations such as Grown in Britain, BASC, the British Deer Society and others across the venison sector, the British Quality Wild Venison Standard aims to build customer confidence and increase market demand by ensuring full traceability throughout the supply chain for the benefit of the environment, land managers and producers.

What Does the Standard Cover?

Available in England, Wales and Northern Ireland, the Scheme offers the first audited route to market for British wild venison in these nations, giving customers confidence in quality and provenance. We continue to work closely with producers and processors to build a strong, reliable and expanding marketplace for venison supplied under the British Quality Wild Venison brand.

The BQWV Standard covers:

- Deer management and control
- Stalking proficiency
- Deer chiller/larder management
- Carcass inspection
- Transportation
- Processing
- Hygiene
- Traceability

How to join the BQWV Scheme

Vacuum & Sous-Vide game

Scan here to learn how Alex Russon, Hunter Gatherer Cooking uses his sous-vide!

Preparing game meat takes finesse. Sous-vide cooking is a brilliant method to create tender meat with an unmatched depth of flavour.

Turn venison shoulder, for example, into heavenly pulled deer burgers – no grill, smoker, or Dutch oven needed. The sous-vide stick does all the work overnight. Just rub the meat with ready-made BBQ seasoning (see page 34), vacuum seal it and let it cook gently in a water bath at 80 °C for 16 hours to preserve all those rich aromas. The next day, get ready to enjoy a burger of the highest calibre.

“Processed and treated right, venison is a meat that can be anything you want it to be. It is undoubtedly the most available, versatile and healthy meat in the country. From Michelin starred dishes right down to a good old 'pan of scouse' it needs to be in everyone's diet!”

Steve McGuigan,
Cheshire Wild Venison

VACUUMING

LAVA – THE NO. 1 IN THE HUNTING SECTOR

This keeps game fresh up to 20 times longer!

Vacuum packing is a simple and effective method to preserve game meat – whether for personal use or for sale. By removing the air from the bag, the formation of bacteria and germs is prevented. This keeps game fresh for up to 20 times longer (when stored in a fridge at +5 to -2 °C).

Lava vacuum sealers are the ideal solution for preserving game. They are powerful and create a perfect vacuum. The Lava Turbo Pump System (LTP) ensures a high vacuum level of up to -0.97 bar. A built-in pressure regulator also allows for vacuum packing pressure-sensitive foods with ease.

Lava's premium vacuum bags are BPA-free, food-safe, tasteless and odourless – and perfectly suited for sous-vide cooking.
